That this brochure even exists is as improbable as the existence of Looking Glass Peyote Church of Oregon (LGPCO).

Improbable because disseminating written information runs counter to the rich oral traditions that endow LGPCO with the ancient wisdom upon which it is built. Improbable because of the challenges inherent in establishing such a Church.

But challenges can be overcome with determination.

And using this medium to reach people is necessary to spread the message that change is essential to preserve and heal the Earth and humanity. Not doing so counters the greatest good: to propagate healing by sharing knowledge with all people, regardless of ethnic origin.

LGPCO is a legal entity, recognized federally and by the state of Oregon.

Founded by a four-fourths ethnic Native American, LGPCO is protected under the purview of pre-European contact which acknowledges the rights of indigenous people to worship as their ancestors for thousands of years.
